Why should study in EUROPE?

To brighten your career

By studying abroad in Europe, you set the course for your career success. Many European countries also make an effort to convince foreign graduates to stay on after university. That means if you decide to study in Europe, the chances are good that you will get a job offer and can stay on for a longer term.

A wide range of education systems

There are many Colleges and Universities in Europe, offering several programmes in English. You can find programmes in any academic discipline as per your choice at small, intimate universities or large international research centers; cutting edge academic research programmes or practice-oriented education. There is something for everybody.

World class-education and research

Many of the world's best colleges & universities are located in Europe. Cross-border cooperation within Europe has shaped a strong international academic community that conducts cutting-edge research.

Low Tuition fees

Compared to countries like the US, Canada or Australia, the tuition fees at most public universities in Europe are very low. In some European countries, there aren't even any tuition fees - studying at university is free of charge. There are also lots of scholarship opportunities and other options for financial support during your study period.

Travel and discover the whole continent

When you study in Europe, you should use the opportunity to see more countries than just one. There are cheap flight, train and bus connections, and relatively short travel times, and that is even possible on a limited student budget and with tight semester schedules.

If you are a foreign citizen studying within the Schengen area of 26 European states then you can easily obtain a student visa allowing you to visit the other countries of the Schengen area. Think of all the great experiences you can gain even far away from campus.

Study in English

In most European countries, the proficiency in English is generally very high. That means even if you struggle to learn the basics in Polish, Portuguese or Swedish, you can always get by with English in everyday situations.

Higher education systems are well-respected and aligned

The Bologna process of reforms and the national higher education systems of all European countries have been aligned.

That means that any Bachelor or Master in Europe follows the same general academic framework. If you obtain a degree from a European country, it will be equivalent to a degree from all over Europe or the United Kingdom.

Why study in AUSTRALIA?

Choosing to study in Australia will provide you with wonderful opportunities and experiences, as well as world-class education. Here are six reasons why you should consider Australia as your study abroad destination.

Growing Destination

Australia is currently the third most popular destination for international students in the English-speaking world, behind the United States of America and the UK. Many international students choose to study there because of the cultural diversity, friendly natives, and high quality of education.

Work

Students visiting the country are allowed to work up to 20 hours per week while they are studying in Australia. This is a great opportunity for students who want to earn money to help with living expenses during their stay, and for students who want to gain work experience in their field of interest while they study.

Global Recognition

Schools and employers all over the world recognize degrees from Australian schools. Graduates from Australian schools are highly sought after due to the impressive international reputation of the Australian education system. This system is carefully regulated by the Australian government in order to maintain the high standards of education associated with the country.

Diversity of Education

Institutions in Australia offer a wide variety of courses and degrees, so international students can easily find the school and field that are right for them. The first decision international students have to make when choosing a degree program is which type of school most caters to their needs and interests. Students can choose between universities, vocational education, and English language training. If necessary, it is easy for students to move between one qualification level and from one institution to another.

Cost of Living

Australia's standard of living is amongst the highest in the world. Living expenses and tuition costs are considerably lower in Australia than they are in the United States and United Kingdom. International students are able to work part time while they study, allowing them to offset their living costs. There is also the possibility of scholarships, which can help to lower the cost of studying in Australia for international students.

Technology

One of the most appealing aspects of the country for international students is the quality of scientific research. Australia is at the forefront of new technology and innovations. Students who study in Australia can take advantage the country's impressive technology and research resources.

When most people think of Australia, they see wide open spaces of outback bush, kangaroos, koalas and clean air and water. However, Australia has so much more to offer than just that. Many international students are choosing to study in Australia because of its friendly, laid-back nature, excellent education system, and high standard of living.

Why study in USA?

Every year, the number of international students in the US rises as more and more students choose the United States as the place they wanted to broaden their experience and continue their education. In fact, the US is now the most popular country for international students. Why do so many international students choose U.S. colleges and universities?
